REPUBLICAN LANDSLIDE IN OGDEN
IS CAUSE OF A BIG CELEBRATION

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)
Ogden, Nov. 2.—William C. Gamm, Republican candidate for mayor, won over Alexander Brewer, Democratic candidate, here today with 153 majority, taking the entire Republican ticket into office with the single exception of one councilman in the Fourth precinct.

Chas. Flyvare, Democratic candidate for the council in the Fourth, won with 10 majority over Moyes. All else went Republican with majorities ranging close to 1,000 in all the city offices with the exception of the close fight for the mayoralty. The total vote was 5,107. The Republican landslide came towards the end of the day, the ballot running close until late in the afternoon.

Judge John D. Murphy, Republican, went in for another term on the city bench without opposition, the Democrats failing to nominate a candidate for that position.

In the fight for the council the Republicans won with a majority relative to that of the city ticket, a lead of 20 votes, the average, except in the case of Flyvare, who received 77 votes against Moyes' 77 votes.

The fight for the office of city attorney was a bitter one. Devine and Skeen, who enemies ever since the latter began his muck-raking campaign against the city officials several years ago, were expected to put up the closest fight on the ticket. Devine won through the superb working of the Republican machine, and through the general inclination towards straight ticket balloting.

The election of Brewer was predicted all through the day and practically admitted by the Republicans an hour before the closing of the booths. Heavy balloting for Gamm in the Fourth, Seventh and Tenth districts near the close of the election saved the day.

Stanford, runner up auditor on the Republican ticket, won over Riser with a majority of 955 votes, proving a great surprise.

Allison and Shorten, candidates for the office of recorder, ran close in the majority of the districts. Allison, Republican, carried big majorities in the Fourth, Seventh, Tenth and Fourteenth districts, winning with 800 majority.

Betting on the mayorality fight was absolutely even. On the other sections of the ticket the odds were in favor of the Republicans.

The Republican landslide was the occasion of one of the greatest demonstrations ever seen in Ogden. A torchlight procession, several blocks long, paraded the streets of the business district for hours, and the din and noise were unrelenting.

The official results of the balloting are given in tables as follows:
